Freedom Hill Wines, Paarl

Freedom Hill wines are made on the historic farm, Klompzicht, in the Paarl Wine of Origin Region. The prestigious range derives its name from the fact that the vineyards overlook the legendary Victor Verster Prison (now Drakenstein Prison), where Nelson Mandela took his first steps to freedom - thus heralding a bright new era for our country. Today, each wine in this range is a joyous tribute to liberty.

Graceland Vineyards, Stellenbosch

Paul and Susan McNaughton purchased Graceland in 1990. A 'red only' route has been pursued following the soil, climate and slope parameters of the property. Two single varietals (Merlot and Cabernet Sauvignon) were launched for the 1998 maiden vintage, with the Shiraz and flagship blend, The Three Graces in 2002.

Herold Wines, Outeniqua

A new South African wine growing area has been certified in the Outeniqua Mountains of the Southern Cape. The vineyards lie 700 - 800m above sea level, where cool mountain mists keep summer temperatures moderate and create a long ripening season. Herold Pinot Noir 2003 is unique in that it is the first wine to be grown, made and bottled in this new region.
